

Time has come for you to depart and I feel orphaned after six decades of association with you first as your student, and than as a follower of the path set by you. Your contribution to humankind in many ways, especially in combating hunger and deprivation of economic and social well being of rural women is absolutely unimitable – perhaps are in several billions only is equipped.

May your soul rest in peace.

P C Kesavan